Third Sunday in Lent

Good morning, friends! Have you ever been thirsty? What does that feel like? (allow for answers) What helps you be NOT thirsty? But what if you were really thirsty and I gave you...oh, I don't know...some crackers...Would that help your thirst? (No!) Why not? [pause for answers] It'd only make you thirstier? Really? Ok, what if I gave you...a pile of salt! Would that help? No? Are you sure? So what would happen if we kept drinking and eating things that didn't help our thirst? What would happen to us? You're right... We would not feel very good. We might even die(!). So this "thirsty" word mostly gets used in the way we just talked about: Our throats and mouths get dry and maybe raw -- and we need something cool and wet to make it better. And if we don't drink something or we drink the wrong thing, then our bodies don't do too well. We don't feel well.

Our hearts, minds, and souls can also get thirsty for God's love. But do you know what we sometimes do? We try to give our hearts, minds, and souls something else for that thirst, and that doesn't work out very well for us just like eating crackers and piles of salt doesn't help a thirsty person.

In today's gospel story, that is the kind of thirst that Jesus is talking about with the woman at the well. The woman has been giving things to her thirsty heart, mind, and soul that left her feeling not very good. And Jesus knows this. Which is why he tells her, "Ask for living water so that you'll never be thirsty again."

And you know what? Because the woman at the well listened to Jesus, it helped her to know what her heart, mind, and soul needed. She was so excited that she went and shared this news with everyone she could, which led to many people in the town choosing to go listen to Jesus. So Jesus stayed there for two more days to talk to them about how they could receive God's love.

The same thing is true for us: As we listen to and learn from Jesus about God's love and healing, then we can better receive God's living water and share it with those around us. adapted from R4.org

Gracious God, thank you for your Son Jesus who is our living water. Help us to share this good news. Amen.
