7th Sunday After Pentecost

Good morning friends! When I was little, one of my chores was to weed the flower beds. Our military family lived in base housing and our yard had to be kept to a certain standard. There was even a prize for “yard of the month” which we won a few times! My Dad took great pride in planting the perfect combination of flowers to make our gardens look beautiful...but it was my job to pull out the weeds that choked out the flowers.

In our Gospel lesson from Matthew this morning, Jesus talks about wheat and weeds growing together. Jesus warns that if we pull the weeds (bad), then we might accidentally pull up the wheat (good) along with it. Jesus says, let them grow together until it’s time to harvest.

We have all had times in our lives (even on the same day!) when we are both weeds and wheat. If we had a day when we were weeds, what would have happened if someone had decided to give up on us? God is the ultimate judge of people, not us. It’s not our job to say that someone is bad and not worth our time. When we treat everyone the way that we want to be treated, then we’ve done the job that we’ve been called to do...to love our neighbors as ourselves.

Loving God, help me not to be too quick to judge others and to leave that job to you. Amen.
